IMPORTANT PROM MADAGASCAR.

[From the Cope Town Advertiser, Nov. 6.]

The Schowing letter, from the Rev Mr. Le Brue, addressed to a gentleman in Cape Town, formerly consected with the Melegary Miscion, affords a gratifying prospect of the re-opening of the peris of Madagasco:—

Four Leurs, Oct. 6, 1852.

It is with heartfelt gratitude to he Lord that I have the pleasure to address you on a subject dear to your heart. I mean the probability of a speedy scittlement of the effours of Modagascar, as regards the speaking of the ports of that year and important selend, and I fully expect that this will lead to an opening of the messengers of peace.

To begin at once with the subject, allow meter any, that almost these months ago, we received a cetter from Ramafasse, informing us that the prince had sent on the coast three messengers, namely, Rat-conlavoula, Ratsoulaudy, and Rabotearascarra, to reserve our instructions. We immediately eart O. Johns, one of the Melagary Evangelists to meet them at Pamatave with a case of books. But on his arrival, the captain of the voscel was met by Mr. Belastrele, who said.— You have a missionary and a case of Sibles on board of your vessel—none of your realism shall be allowed to land," and a guard of soldiers was put on the shere of Pamatave to prevent communication with the vessel; and even they were not allowed fresh provisions, so that poor D. Johns Andrianando was obliged to return to the Mauritius without being able to assemblish the object of his mission.

Biortly after we heard of the death of the prime minister Rainshaue and naturally with him felt the authority and menocely of Delastele who, however left no means to renew his treaty of commerce with the Ovalit's government; the fact of the mission of the prime minister was raised to the fourteensh honor and filled the place of his interfather. We see informed, at Tamatave to put stails you free translation. The first is prince:

"I come to see you again with this letter, and to mention to you the great alterations which have taken place already in the law of our country, Madagascar.

1. The commander here at Tamatave is waiting for the English to come and make a treaty of commander and peace between the two nations, as in the time of Radama.

saith the queen.

3. The Vangaindrano and the Faradifay nations are at war with the Ovalis Hase, commander in onief, four-teenth honor has left the capital with six thousand fighting men to meet them Hase is the son of Rain bare, and fills the place of his late father. Baith your friend, (Sign-d)

My dear Friend:—Now is the time to make some efforts for the re-specing of the trade in Madagascar I am exceedingly sorry that we have not a single ship of war here It absolutely necessary to pay a friendly visit to Tamatare. The young prince is not ans weeable for what has prince.

The Oralis are besieged at Fort Dauphin. They have applied to Mr Delastele, who, of course, has sent them ammunition.

About twenty days ago the Chamber of Jommsros sent a schooler to Tenniave, with Mr Mangoot, a mirrohaut; he has visited them to see what can be done. We expect him back about the 20th of this month. I shall let you know the result. Yours, very truly,

THE TRANS VAAL REPUBLIC.—ATTACK OF THE BOERS

As we below remarked Secheli has been looked upon as a peaceable chief, and so long as he remained such we question whether the mere possession of firearms could constitute a valid cause belti sgaints him. Here we would not be misunderstood We are decidedly avers to supplying native tribes with firearms, and we should be ready to advocate any measure to prevent this being done. The case of Secheli differs from the generality. Schell and his trips depended very much, if not sitogether, on shooting elephants and either large geme, and disposing of the proceeds to traders. However much may be said about shooting elaphants by traders, it is pretty certain that the trocy market would be but seantly supplied cid not tribes such as feebely's and Grique's keep up the stock. In conclusion, we begt to observe that, until we know in what particular respect Sechell offended we must withhold our approval of the measures pursued with regard to bim. Of course, the Soversignty government has nothing to do in the matter; and we can only repeat that any proceedings on the part of our fiends beyond the Vaal calculated to block up the highway to the Great Lake and beyond, are, in our cylmon, chiectionable.

We are in possess on of a specimen of roal which may be found in abundance on the Sandt river, district of Winburgh. This coal appears to us to be of first sate quality; and we were is d to indulgation one of our school-boy pastimes—that of making gas by manage of a first page. duanty, and we were it of indargs in one of our school-boy pastimes—that of making gas by means of a tobusco-pipe. When the town of Bleomiontein shall have attain-ed to a more compact shaps, we hope to have our sores, streets &a. I gated with gas. We understand that cer-tain beers in the vicinity of the mines are ready to tran-sport any quantity wither at 16s, per maid. Should due be found for any extensive quantity, we doubt not that it could be obtained at a more economical rate.

BHOOTING AFFRAY—ONE MAN DANGEROUSLY IF NOT PATALLY WOUNDED.

On Monday evening about eight o'clock an affray took place at a porter house, kept by Peter denuitz, a: No 61 West street in which John Van Brackie mate of the ship Esgle lying at pier 8 North river, discharged a revolver pistol and shot Jo eph Jougherty. The ball took effect in the breast, inflicting a dangerous, if not a faral wound. The injured man was conveyed by the police to the City Hospital. It seems the origin of the affray was caused by Dougherty, who some into the barroom where Brackie was and challenged him to fight. Brackie who took the matter, at first, to be only a joke, repited that he would fight him for $25, and at the same time began to take off his coat; but inding that Dougherty's intention was to fight he declined to have anything more to do with him, and invited Dougherty put to the bar to drink. The friends of Dougherty advised him not to fight, and he ultimately took a drink. Dougherty still, bowever, pordsted in having a fight, and Brackie, in order to step any further disturbance, left the ber and retired into a back room. Dougherty about the bar room with the evident full determination of attacking Brackie, he entered the room, Brackie saw that he was determined to assealt him, and understanding that he had produced a loaded plate! he (Brackle) drew from his packet a revolver, and as Dougherty approached discharged it several times. One of the slung penetraced the breast of Boogherty, another wounded the third mate of the she gage, by lodging the ball in the groin. The third shot took effect on the precon of Mr. Slawade, parsing through all his clothing, and bruiking 'Frackie, parsing through all his clothing, and bruiking 'he first, ward, took the station house. Alderman Moore was sent for who heard the circumstance as acove related, and derided to hold Brackie until the matter could be more fally in vestigated. Brackle nakhoveded frealy to the Aiderman that he shot Dougherty, but that it was done i vestigated. Brackle acknowledged frought to the Atlarman that he shot Dougherty, but that it was done in self detrees, as he subges he saw the handle of a pixtol protruding from the posset of this adversary, and therefore took the prompt action of shooting Dougherty he fore be himself was shot.
